

EDITORIAL GUIDELINES

- * Usul Islamic Studies is an international, refereed, scientific, and an academic journal
- * The journal is published biannually in April and October.
- * The publications of the journal include compilations of previously unpublished journal articles in Turkish, Arabic, and English; as well as reviews of books, journals, conferences, and scientific interviews.
- * The articles that are sent for publication should first be checked to make sure they abide by the rules outlined in the “Article Guidelines” which can be found via <http://www.usuldergisi.com/en/article-guidelines.html>
- * The articles that are sent for publication must not exceed 7500 words for journal articles and 1500 words for review articles. The abstracts of the article must not exceed 200 words with up to 5 keywords.
- * The applications for all publications must be made through the Usul Publication Portal (MTS). All necessary information must be provided to the publisher in the application form.
- * The articles turned in for publication will be reviewed for purpose, subject, content, presentation style, and grammar by the Editorial Board. The articles that are accepted will then be reviewed by two referees that are appointed by the Board. If deemed necessary, a third referee will also be asked to review the article. So long as at least two referees vote in favour of publishing the article, the Board will review the article for the second time, either accepting the article to be published, or rejecting it on justified grounds.
- * The language, scientific content, and the legal responsibility of the published article is the liability of the author(s).
- * The copyrights of the published articles belong to Usul Islamic Studies indefinitely.
